LEARNING, TEACHING AND ASSESSMENT INFORMATION

6a. Module Description

The advancement of knowledge, applications, technology and theories in the sport, exercise and performance psychology domain is rapidly increasing. Thus, contemporary issues and "hot" topics in the domain are constantly changing. Through a flipped teaching approach, this module will consist of a series of integrated lectures and practical activities, which will allow you to discover the most up-to-date topics discussed in national (e.g., BASES) and international (e.g., AASP, ISSP, FEPSAC) Sport and Exercise Psychology conferences. Furthermore, the transfer and adaption of current and innovative research and technology from the general psychology domain will be presented and discussed. You will be encouraged to reflect and discuss topics that not only focus on the fields of sport and exercise, but also from areas that can be related to the concepts of Performance Psychology (e.g., military, arts, health). This module helps develop a number of transferable skills relevant to general employment including problem solving, creativity, teamwork and thinking "outside of the box".

6b. Outline Content

- Overview of topics presented in recent sport psychology conferences (e.g., AASP, FEPSAC, ISSP, BASES)
- Discuss innovative technology in the domain (e.g., eye tracking, virtual reality, EEG)
- Present new and updated theories (e.g., shared mental models, mindfulness, challenge and threat)
- Transferring and adapting innovative ideas from the general psychology domain (e.g., decision making approaches, categorisation, group dynamics, learning)
- Methods of developing innovative technology
- Learning to critique current theories and models
