LEARNING, TEACHING AND ASSESSMENT INFORMATION

6a. Module Description
You will put into practice a collaborative music project working in a team or group. The module is devised to enable you to demonstrate your abilities to work collaboratively in performing a variety of practical and creative roles, and critically reflect upon the processes involved in undertaking professional, ethical and sustainable composition, performance, production, promotion and/or other responsibilities in a negotiated project. Through doing this, you will demonstrate your knowledge and understanding of concepts of professionalism and entrepreneurialism. You will be expected to contribute effectively to group work, demonstrate adaptability in determining and achieving individual goals, including supporting or being proactive in leadership, and critically evaluate the roles you have carried out. The collaboration can involve students from across the courses at Anglia Ruskin University. In putting your project into practice, a required outcome is that you take your work to an extra-University audience, and as such the collaboration may involve external individuals, agencies, or organisations. The nature of the creative musical collaborations will inevitably be diverse.
6b. Outline Content
Through active negotiation with a module tutor, students will outline, define and put into practice their collaborative project, with group tutorials focusing on: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • the form and content of the group project • the perceived audience • the mode of dissemination / performance • technological requirements • contextual, critical and theoretical underpinning • issues concerning collaboration and creativity, and transferable and employability skills
